

ABSTRACT

- The invention provides methods and systems designed generally to managing the risk or occurrence of surgical site infection incident to a surgical procedure. The methods and systems employ perioperative process mapping tools that align, monitor and/or
- 5 manage the operation of a plurality of health care delivery practices and thereby provide a desired level of infection risk management.